DiscussIT Topic 6: Where is our country headed?

Discuss IT Topic: Over the last week, our country has had growing concerns on immigration bans, border safety, and executive orders that remind us of issues that have been plaguing our country for years. Now that Trump has been elected President, there has been people threatening to blow up the White House, human right protests, and a plethora of other sensitive subject matters that are very compelling to individual groups of people. Why have these issues come up now as we head into a time in which it seems no one is going to be happy with the outcomes? Will this create a split in this country and place citizens against one another when it comes to their views? In your opinion, what other topics are at the forefront of concern? Explain...

Response: Please make sure all grammar, spelling, indentation, and punctuation is correct.

I believe that when Trump was inaugurated on January 20 people did not like the fact that he was going to be the president of the United States because of his prior past. The problem is that in the first week of being in office he already has signed several executive orders on immigration. I do agree about stopping funding for plan parenthood because tax payers were paying for abortions in other countries which doesn't make sense to the people to have for other countries. The riots for women protesting were pointless and they did not get their point across. Most of the women there did not even know what they were protesting about. That riot were women who were anti- Trump and thought he should not be in office. However, I do not agree with him banning Syrian immigrants to come in because there are millions of people who have come off flights and boats to be legally allowed in this country and he is holding innocent people there to wait. Those people were trying to get away of their homes who have been attacked and are not safe anymore.

This country will go to war at some point with either another country or between the country. This presidency has made more dilemmas than ever before and him as a president could potentially split the country from pro-Trump and anti-Trump if people don't start seeing all these executive orders have a good major role in the United States. In the future if Trump does not show an increase in jobs and pay people will get furious and that will cause another problem for people to complain and riot about.
